

JSX Air

JSX Air was founded in 2016 as JetSuiteX, a public charter airline based in Dallas, Texas. The carrier was rebranded as JSX Air in 2019 and has occasional charter flights pass through the Albuquerque Sunport. JSX began regularly scheduled seasonal service to Taos, New Mexico on December 15, 2022 operating on behalf of Taos Air with flights to Austin and Dallas (Love Field), Texas as well as Burbank and San Diego, California using 30-seat Embraer-135 and Embraer-145 regional jets. The service operated through the winter ski season serving the Taos Ski Valley until April 3, 2023. Service is set to return for the summer season as well. JSX is a subsidiary of Delux Public Charter LLC and is partially owned by JetBlue Airways. Scheduled JSX flights, including those serving Taos, also operate using a code-share with JetBlue.

JSX Air route map, southwestern United States, from December 15, 2022.

JSX Air Embraer-135 at the Albuquerque Sunport in 2020.

JSX Air Embraer-145 at the Taos Regional Airport upon inauguration of service in December, 2022.